This weekend starts a new adventure called Woods and Water. I hope each of you will come prepared to learn, give presentations, and help plan this session of White Stag. It is important that you be there at 7:00 P.M. on Friday. We will be having a presentation that night.

This weekend we need to take our First Aid class, start thinking about what positions you want to hold and review the sequence of presentations from last years session so we can map out the course for this year. Challenges we will need to over come are doing presentations on the trail, getting all presentations done before dark, staying within the guidelines for use of the Wilderness and National Forest, learn emergency procedures, and having fun!

If it is warm enough bring a frisbie or game to relax with.

Attached are a map and instruction to the Powell's home. Bring a cot if you have one? See you Friday, Feb. 11, 7:00 P.M.

The Stag is starting his long journey through the dense woods.
