

On The Topic of Blood-Sucking Insects

We decided to ask Mr. Mullins, our camp ranger, about these pesky mosquitoes that spring has brought us. He cautioned us that, although you may think he already has too many in his camp, it would be considered theft if you were to take any of them home with you.

Free Pop Awarded

An unknown scout, unknown because we don't know who he was, solved a mysterious and mind-boggling question asked by Riddler Joe. A free pop will be awarded to the person who solves today's riddle of the day correctly. Today's riddle is:

For several days a man stood in the parking lot looking up at the apartment building across the street. This man was becoming a nuisance and one of the tenants of the building phoned the authorities to have the man removed. Several days later when the authorities finally responded to the call, the man was gone. All they found was a couple of buttons and his hat. Who was the man they had just missed?

Money, Money, Money...

Through many hours of vigorous probing of scouting executives and officials, the Daily Stag has learned that the amount of pay to the staff has increased. It has increased by approximately 29.58%.

How Are Your Car Manners?

Put these three sentences in the order in which they should take place.

- Throw up.
- Get out of the car.
- Ask Uncle Jerry to pull over.

Useless Thought

Some people are like blisters: they show up right after all the work is done.

International words of wisdom

What Does this Mean? Tell us if you know...

Por la calle de despues, se va a la casa de nunca.