

It Stops Raining

Yesterday a miracle occurred to the White Stag course of 97. It stopped raining.

Raccoon Ransacks

Staff Site

A raccoon named Fill attacked the Staff Campsite last night. It made off with all of our goodies, strangely it left the tents of some certain staff members alone. The morale of this story: Do not take showers.

Do You Have Insurance?

Many of White Stag participants have lost their camping equipment due to the massive rains, and mud. If you had Insurance these items could all be replaced. Ask your Troop Guide about the offices of Mike Hunt.

Staff Members Still Lost

Joe and Angie still have not been seen, but we did receive notice that many participants have heard people in the woods yelling out for help. We have contacted the local authorities and we may have them come in to search for these missed staff members on Thursday.

Useless Fact of the Day

When you stack up Dutch Ovens too high they may fall over.

Timmy

Tenderfoot...Lives

As you all saw, our annual burning of Tommy Tenderfoot's tent went awry, but you do not know the true and whole story. Timmy was a Ransburg Staff Member who was dared by another of Ransburg's "elite staff" named Grubby to sleep in our tent. When we set it on fire we realized there was someone in there. However it was too late, since the tent burned faster than we expected. Luckily Timmy was sent to the hospital and is in perfect condition.

THEENDTHEENDTHEENDTHEENDTHEE
ND